EARLY MOLTING OF CHICKENS

Western Poultryman Gives Excellent Method of Controlling Hens in Changing Feathers.

Most people believe that if they can force their hens to molt early they will lay more eggs during the season, but this is not true. Hens that have molted late will lay more eggs during the winter than the early molters.

This has been shown by the most careful experiments, but the facts are not generally known.

Molting hens require a large amount of food containing nitrogen such as alfalfa, meat and other foods rich in protein. Molting can be forced by cutting down the feed of hens as it has been shown by experiments that hens fed less than half their normal ration will molt earlier than those on full feed, but the former do not finish molting much earlier.

Starved hens molt more uniformly than others and this is particularly noticeable in hens two or three years old.

In an experiment conducted by the Cornell experiment station it was found that on a basis of 100 hens the flock produced eggs to the value of $29.97 more than by the starved flock.

The total income from all the birds was $278 for the starved flock and $359 for the fed flock, a difference in favor of natural molting for the year of about $85.

A western poultryman of long experience gives his method of controlling molting as follows:

As soon as the hens are through laying he turns them out on alfalfa, feeding them dry bran only, in addition. Under this treatment they get thin. Then he feeds them a mixed ration of grains and meat, giving a light feed in the morning and all they will eat at noon and night. Under this treatment they finish molting quickly, get new feathers and begin laying in September. By October 1 they are all in good laying condition and make a profit through the fall and winter.

PLYMOUTH ROCK IS POPULAR

Birds Shape Makes Them Desirable Breed for Hens—Much Favored as Utility Fowl.

The Barred Plymouth Rock is without a doubt the most popular breed of chickens in this country—more of them are found on the farms than any other breed. On special poultry farms the Rock is a very popular breed, and in the poultry farming districts the Rhode Island Red are almost exclusively used, says a writer in the Rural New Yorker. As a general utility fowl the Wyandottes are second in popularity to the Rocks, the white variety being the most popular.

Their blocky shape makes them an excellent breed for broilers. Like the Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds, they lay a brown egg. The Leghorns lay a white egg, and in this respect they have a slight advantage, as most markets prefer the white egg, though there is no difference in the qualities of eggs with a brown or a white shell.

DOULTRY NOTES

Overcrowding ducklings will induce feather-pulling.

Kerosene is sure death to lice, if applied as a spray.

Hens suffer from overeating as much as from starving.

It is provoking to have hens steal their nests this time of the year.

The feeding of onions to laying hens has produced an onion flavor in eggs. A hen egg-bound will be seen to visit the nest repeatedly without result.

Fodder corn makes fine green food for poultry of all ages. Try it fed green.

Many will realize this fall and winter that the early-hatched chick is the winter layer.

It is not advisable to allow ducklings bathing water before the weather is warm and pleasant.

Market at once all males not kept for breeders, and all pullets that have not kept pace with the rest of the flock.

CLOVER MIXTURE FOR SWINE

Combination of Alsike With Either Common Red or Mammoth Gives Good Results.

By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.) A mixture of alsike with either the common red or the mammoth clover will give more and better pasture than any one of them. The value of the pasture depends on the number of leaves rather than on the stems. The per cent. of the leaves is greater in alsike than in the medium and the medium has a larger per cent. of leaves than has the mammoth, when compared with the stem. This alsike is finer in stem, too, and grows leafy growth after eaten down better than do the other clovers. It pays to sow about ten pounds of medium and five pounds of alsike to each acre.

I have noticed that clover is preferred to any of these clovers. This suggests that they would enjoy a mixture of clover including alsike. As it is less hardy at the start it will not be so likely to be killed by frost as the other clovers until the season of severe frost has passed.

Once established, alsike will ensure as much hardiness as any of the clovers named, yet none of them will endure grazing when frozen or even when covered with frost. A little care to keep frost off until the frost has disappeared will prolong the usefulness of the clover pasture. Delay in turning on in the spring until May will be profitable.

STOCK CHUTE QUITE USEFUL

Convenient Farm Implement Easily Moved by Addition of Two Discarded Mower Wheels.

Perhaps every farmer has occasion to load some animal into a wagon and one of them prepare for this by building a stock chute. Frequently these chutes are built as a permanent fixture in connection with the feed lots, but they are often made so that they can be transported from one part of the farm to another. When a chute of this kind is built heavy and strong enough to support the weight of a mature hog or a large calf it becomes a clumsy thing to move. Mr. R. J. Linscott, owner of the Rosalpa Jersey at Holton, Kan., has solved this problem of inconvenience in a very easy way. The wheels and axle used in making his stock chute are parts of old machinery found on the farm, the wheels being taken from an old mower. The upper end of the chute is provided with two strong iron hooks, which are sharpened so as to engage the bottom of the wagon bed and prevent slipping after the animal starts upward. With such an arrangement there is no difficulty in building a chute of ample strength because the question of weight has relatively little importance. The chute can be hooked on behind the wagon and hauled to any part of the farm.

Stock Chute on Wheels.

Giving the Horse Salt. It is a mistake to deprive a horse of salt. Large lumps of rock salt should always be kept in a box in a corner of the manger, where the horse can help himself.

Lice on Horses.

For lice on horses use a good house powder generously wherever lice appear, and blanket closely for 12 to 15 hours. This kills most of them. Repeat if necessary.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Blinds on the nervous horse are as fuel added to fire.

Have the ewes in good flesh condition at mating time.

Oats should be made a part of the ration of the growing colt.

Sheeps are certainly an attractive proposition at public sales.

Slick to the "golden hoof" and turn farm wastes into mutton.

Exposure to chill and rain is detrimental to any mulling dumb animal.

At this time of year considerable attention should be given to the mares.

A windmill is a necessity on every stock farm where there is not fresh running water.

Good horses and mules were never higher in American history than they are at the present time.

The stables, which will soon be occupied by the live stock, should be made comfortable for them.

The man who gets the cost of production down to the minimum is the man who makes the money.

A blanket of fat on a horse, like charity, is a mantle that often serves to cover a multitude of defects.

Experienced shepherds usually make a practice of flushing out the ewes just before breeding time.

ONE ROAD IS MADE PERFECT

Hammonton Pike, Near Harrisburg, Pa., Considered by Experts to Be Model Highway.

The Hammonton pike, near Harrisburg, Pa., is considered by experts to be a model road. It is made of a mixture of water, gas, tar, cement, liquid asphaltum, road oil, carbolite, disinfecting powder, sulphate of copper, and oil of white-gelatin. The sulphate of copper is used to prevent the dirt from becoming liquid, and the water-gelatin counteracts the dirt of the others. There is nothing disagreeable about the smell. A curious effect of the mixture is its disinfecting power. During the past year there was not a single contagious disease in that section. The cost of applying the mixture is 54 cents a square yard. The cement binds the dirt together like glue, and the oil makes it waterproof, so that it readily sheds water. The road is never muddy and, unlike a tar road, does not become slippery in winter time. Frost has no effect on it at all. The cost of applying it is very small, as it is sprinkled on like water. That the method and the mixture is a perfect success has been shown during the present summer. Despite the heavy automobile and wagon traffic, the road is perfectly smooth and very hard, and it has met the test in every way.

HOW BIRDS PROTECT FARMER

Estimated Little Songsters Save $200,000,000 Worth of Crops Yearly by Killing Insects.

Large numbers of our most beautiful and beneficial birds may be seen during the month of October lingering with us for a while on their way to the south. Hermit and gray-checked thrushes, white-throated sparrows, chickadees, brown creepers, kinglets, warblers, blue birds and others, all of which as a rule inhabit more secluded places, may be found among the shade trees and shrubbery of the city. It will be found upon investigation that they are vigilantly searching for insects most of which are injurious. These birds should be protected by all means from the boy with the sling shot or air gun and from prowling cats.

Chestnut-Backed Bluebird.

It has been estimated that the birds in the United States save $200,000,000 worth of crops each year. The tree sparrows in Iowa eat 4,550 pounds of weed seed daily. One fully-fledged robin will eat sixteen feet of caterpillar daily, or about 4,550 individuals a month.

However, in spite of the persistence of the birds the apple worm in Illinois destroys $2,375,000 worth of fruit each year. The potato bug damage potatoes in Massachusetts to the value of $75,000. The chinch bug annually damages crops in the United States to the amount of $2,000,000. Insects generally destroy $800,000,000 worth of crops in this country each year.

Let us protect the birds if for no other reason than for the welfare of the crops. The insect ravages once checked perhaps the high cost of living may be somewhat reduced.

Good Roads & Farm Notes

Batten the cracks.

Produce from bottom lands are not suitable for alfalfa.

Many silos will be filled with frost-bitten corn this year.

Prices of all kinds of grain are lower than they have been for some time.

Practical farmers consider it a waste of feed to plow down a crop of clover.

The safe for plowing under clover for green manure is when the heads are brown.

After seed corn is gathered from the field it should be dried as quickly as possible.

Corn grown for grain and for fodder should be cut and shocked as soon as possible.

Keep track of frost when green will generally color same after it is in the shock.

Kafr filled by the frost will make fair feed even if it is green, but it is not suitable.

The 1912 hay crop is estimated at 72,999,000 tons. Last year's was figured at 55,940,000.

Flowing gardens in the fall gets rid of most of the weeds and makes them easier to tend next spring.

One of the great drawbacks on many farms is the small size and irregular shape of the cultivated fields.

FARM AND BEES

USE KELP AS A FERTILIZER

Many Farmers Along Maine Coast Gather Seaweed in Large Quantities and Scatter on Land.

The main in the picture is one of the many farmers on the Maine coast who gather kelp to put on their lands as fertilizer. Kelp is a seaweed which is washed up on the shore, and at low tide, farmers along the Atlantic coast gather it in large quantities and spread it upon their land. This makes a very good fertilizer, particularly as few animals are raised in New England that stable manure is scarce. However, as kelp is now being used quite extensively in the manufacture of drugs and other things, it is becoming more valuable for those purposes than for fertilizer, and the wonder is what these seashore farmers will do next to obtain something to enrich their soil.

BEE-KEEPING FOR A FARMER

No Agricultural Property Will Make Equal Returns for Trouble Caused by Honey Insects.

A great many farmers seem to think that honey bees are not worth anything, but still they value what they make very highly. Every one of them would be glad to have honey on his table all the time. If they would just take a little extra time and labor they could have all they wanted.

Just have a few hives in the back yard, and you will have all the honey you want for your own use. If you have not any, it will all to spend with bees, why not let your wife or the children have a few colonies?

Bee-keeping is a light, pleasant outdoor work. Considering the time required and money spent, there is nothing that will not the owner any more than the keeping of bees.

As high as ten dollars' worth of honey has been gathered by a single swarm of bees; but generally they gather about two dollars' worth in one season.

Many people would keep bees if it were not for their stings. A bee-keeper does not get stung often—he would not any more think of getting stung in picking up a handful of bees than you would in picking up a dozen little chicks.

Honey is a good food for the sick and well, old and young. It can be used a great many ways in the kitchen in preparing things for the table.

TO HITCH A CORNSTALK POLE

With Fastening of Chain Near End of Each Double-Tree Considerable Trouble is Obviated.

Hooking a stalk pole by fastening a long chain from notches to cleavages in the center of the double tree, often causes a lot of trouble by the ends

Hooking a Stalk Pole.

Jerking back and forth, caused by light and heavy places in the stalks. With the fastening of chain near the end of each double tree the trouble is obviated.

Locating the Apiary.

In starting an apiary the first thing to be considered is the selection of a suitable location for the hives. This should be in some open or nearly open place where there will be no overhanging branches from trees to interfere with the operation of the apiarist, convenient to some building to be used as a shop for preparing and storing hives and apparatus, and near enough to the house to be easily watched in swarming time, and, above all, in a place sufficiently level to make it easy to get around the hives and keep the grass mowed about and around them.

Buying Bees.

Bees may be bought at this season very cheaply, and if you are a good judge of colonies, they may be bought and moved a few miles in a spring wagon, or handled very carefully. But it is next to impossible to ship hives full of bees and honey by railroad at this time of year. Anyone contemplating buying had better contract now and ship in early spring after the most of the honey has been consumed, and the combs toughened by age.

Disinfection of the House.

After every case of infectious disease, it is well to disinfect the sick room thoroughly. It is not also, but necessary to do so, for the infective agent of most infectious or contagious diseases does not live long outside of the body. If you air the room thoroughly, boil the patient's clothing, bedclothing, towels, and so on, and expose such things to the sun for two or three days in succession, you will generally guard so the room against further infection. Nevertheless, it is better to disinfect the room, especially if the case has been one of chronic disease, such as consumption.

There are many ways of disinfecting a room; the simplest, the cheapest and the most effective is as follows:

First, sprinkle all the things that can be washed—bedclothing, body-clothing, handkerchiefs, towels, and so forth—with a ten per cent. solution of carbolic acid; then carry them to the laundry and boil them for an hour. After you have dried them thoroughly in the sun, you can be sure that they contain no infection.

Next, lay books or rugs, curtains or pictures on tables and chairs (the books with the leaves spread open as much as possible, and the rugs and curtains without fold or crease), and then shut all the windows and doors. Put an ordinary teakettle on a table in the hall, just outside the door of the room; boil in it a quantity of formalin (a forty-per cent. solution of formaldehyde), and admit the vapor into the room by means of a tube attached to the nose of the kettle and passed through the keyhole. The proper amount of formalin to use is ten ounces for every thousand cubic feet of air-space in the room. After the formalin has boiled away, leave the room undisturbed for twenty-four hours. Then open wide the windows and air the room for twenty-four hours more.

If any formalin fumes remain after the room is opened, you can dissipate them by spraying with spirits of ammonia. If you were careful to open wide every closet door and every drawer in bureau or dressing table or wash stand, and if the rugs and curtains have been exposed without folds to the formalin fumes, you can be sure that the room is absolutely disinfected.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

JEFFERSON'S MOUNTAIN OF SALT.

By A. W. MACY.

While President Jefferson was negotiating with France for the purchase of Louisiana Territory he transmitted to congress one very remarkable document. It was an abstract he had prepared of certain papers relating to the territory, and pictured the country in the most glowing colors. It told of a tribe of Indians of gigantic stature; of bluffs 300 feet high, faced with stone and carved by nature into what appeared like a multitude of antique towers; of a vast prairie country whose soil was too rich for the growth of trees. But most marvelous of all was an immense mountain of pure salt. This was said to be located about 1,000 miles north of New Orleans and near the Mississippi river, and to be 180 miles long and 45 miles wide, with no trees or shrubs on it. All glittering white it stood, and from its base issued great streams of pure salt water. Jefferson had been misled by the fairy tales of travelers. His political opponents had no end of fun with him in after years about his "salt mountain."

"FAGGED-OUT" WOMEN

Will Find a Helpful Suggestion in This Letter.

Overworked, run-down, "fagged out" women who feel as though they could hardly drag about, should profit by Miss Richter's experience. She says: "Last winter I was completely run down and felt fagged out all the time, was nervous and had indigestion. One of my friends advised me to take Vinol, and it has done me great good. The tired, worn-out feeling is all gone, and I am strong, vigorous and well. The stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have perfect digestion. I wish every tired, weak, nervous woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol." Marie Richter, Detroit, Mich.

Thousands of women and men who were formerly weak and sickly owe their present rugged health to the wonderful strength-creating effects of Vinol. We guarantee Vinol to build you up and make you strong. If it does not, we give back your money.

Electric Light
Draws Trade

THERE'S no excuse for the small shop to lose business because of poor lighting.

Poorly illuminated counters oblige customers to seek daylight either at the entrance or at a back window of the store to enable them to examine the texture of goods. This is a nuisance which most customers will not tolerate.

Intelligent customers—the class really worth cultivating, invariably trade at shops where they can see clearly the goods they wish to purchase.

Edison Mazda Lamps afford an abundance of electric light at minimum cost. "Light up" your place of business. Our Lamp Experts will gladly help you on the path to profit.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

The Woman Makes the Home

She makes it best who, looking after the culinary department, turns her back resolutely upon unhealthful, or even suspicious, food accessories. She is economical; she knows that true economy does not consist in the use of inferior meat, flour, or baking powder. She is an earnest advocate of home made, home baked food, and has proved the truth of the statements of the experts that the best cooking in the world today is done with Royal Baking Powder.

A THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

Oh take me not into the realms of Yesterday.
For I am tired and wearied of the Backward Road
Which ever leads through marshes foul and dank from rains
Of long ago still held within the murky slime.
Nor in Tomorrow's land, Oh take me not,
I pray.
It's ailes are sheltered by the stately trees
of Hope
Whose fragrant blossoms, would-be-fruit
e'er shrink and die
Before the time that shows his face.
Content then with Today's fair land, Oh
let me be:
It's scenes are all that mortal eye need long to view,
It's realms are all that mortal feet need want to tread.
Nor seek to go the Backward or the Forward Road.
— Amy M. Longest.

DELIVERIES OF A DAY.

A baby and a box of pills.
A puppy and a rat.
A roly-poly pudding and an old Tom Cat.
A pound of tallow candles.
And a round of buttered toast.
All came to me this morning in the parcels post.

Automobile weather appears to be over for a time in these parts.

Horse swapping was not an active industry here Monday.

Special January sales are blossoming as roses in May.

Mr. John Haley was here from Earles last Monday, on business.

That January rain outdid the dreaded February thaw.

Social affairs have about settled down to normal state.

Daylight minutes are getting very preciously lengthened.

Mr. W. C. Kimmel was here from Drakesboro the first of the week on business.

Mr. Cam Howard was in Lexington on legal business the latter part of the week.

Good morning! Do you not feel sorry for those uncivilized nations that have not the parcels post?

That was a fine opening day for court, about the best ever known at the January term.

Mr. Frank Baines is up, after being confined for many weeks by an attack of typhoid fever.

Visiting attorneys are adding much to the social gaieties during circuit court.

When you get "Quail" meal you get the best that is to be had.

Baby buggies at Roark's.

Ice skates for boys and girls at Roark's. All sizes and prices.

Mr. F. F. Gibson was here from Central City on business last Monday.

It will pay you to look at the wallpaper bargains now on at Roark's.

Messrs. J. E. Latham and Roy Cornett are in Louisville, where Mr. Latham goes for the removal of a wen.

The wreck of the water wagon, the first week of its journey, was the most disastrous ever known in this section.

Mrs. I. Oser and baby were taken to Louisville last Sunday, where Mrs. Oser will be placed in a hospital for treatment.

Coal mines are now getting better runs, as the car supply has been much increased lately, and there has never been a heavier demand for coal.

There are a few cases of smallpox reported in various sections of the county, but every means is being employed to prevent the spread of the malady.

The O. & N. railroad was out of commission a few days this week, on account of water covering track and bridges.

"Bob White" is without doubt the best flour on earth.

Drakesboro is suffering more from high waters than any town in the county, as a greater part of the business section has been submerged for some days.

High water, wrecks, collisions, and other besetments have caused trains to be anywhere from an hour to a dozen hours late during the past week.

Best one ever made—the Kirsch curtain rods; Roark has a large line.

Mr. George C. Jeffers, who has been in Louisville and other points for some years, has returned here, where he will probably remain for some time.

The railroads have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars by the high waters, which have washed out bridges, tracks, caused wrecks and delays, and generally hampered the business.

Read the advertisement of sale of traction engine and thresher box, to be made on Saturday, January 25, by Mr. N. Adkins, administrator of Wm. M. Eades. This machinery is in first-class condition, and should attract wide attention.

Mr. J. H. Pittman was in Louisville last week, and Friday brought his daughter, Miss Leah Carr, home. She has been at Norton Infirmary for some weeks, under the care of specialists for heart trouble, and is much improved.

Mr. J. S. Miller left the latter part of the week for Florida, where he will spend several weeks. He will be joined there by Mr. John A. Williams, of Lexington, and together they intend to tour the state pretty thoroughly.

CIRCUIT COURT

Winter Term Convenes Here Monday, and Is Swinging Along.

Muhlenberg circuit court was started on its three week winter term at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, when Hon. W. P. Sandilge, judge on the bench, rapped for order, and proceeded with the empanelling of the jury. The grand jury was given comprehensive instructions, and started at once on its duties. Hon. J. R. Mallory is guarding the interests of the commonwealth, as district attorney, and is being assisted by Mr. T. D. Jones, county attorney. Court attendance has been rather light on the beginning, as no cases of importance have drawn witnesses and spectators in large numbers. Judge Sandilge is employing his usual methods of moving matters along, and night sessions are being held, so that the docket may be maintained. Following is a list of the juries:

GRAND JURY.

Warren Nash, foreman; J. M. Bivins, R. C. Bandy, Bud Johnson, Frank Martin, John McDonald, E. W. Shrewsbury, E. L. Davenport, F. M. Latham, Jr., W. G. Warren, John Haley, C. C. Shannon.

PELAY JURY.

A. G. Vick, Will Vick, Geo. Coleman, D. P. Taggart, Mansfield Jones, J. F. Mercer, H. A. Wallace, J. Wes Gish, B. C. Mayhugh, J. H. Martin, Fred Legginbotham, Philip Mercer, Edward Kennedy, H. E. Eaves, J. T. Oldham, Albert Jernigan, W. C. Underwood, Geo. McPherson, Ed. Glenn, Andy Glenn, G. B. Head, Milton Batzel, Marion Miller, W. N. Baxter.

Pete Shadlowen was fined $100 and costs for cutting in sudden heat and passion, and for gambling $35 of his winnings was collected as a fine.

Oney Shadlowen was given a fine of only $35 for cutting in sudden heat and passion.

Theo. Laswell, for a breach of the peace, drew punishment to the amount of $20 and costs.

To The Public.

We desire to announce to the public that our new mill is now in full operation, and we will at all times have on hand the very finest quality of flour, meal and feed. We are very anxious to do custom grinding for our friends, and can give them the very best flour and wheat that is to be had anywhere, in exchange for their corn and wheat.

Parcels Post Does Overwhelming Business.

Reports from all over the country for the first week of the parcels post service show that more than 7,500,000 packages were handled in that time. If this business grows in the same proportions that other new ventures increase, it will not be long until the express package will be a thing of the past. The government has every advantage in this matter, as it already has help to handle the business, and reaches thousands of points that the express people cannot touch, every postoffice being open for the dispatch and receipt of packages. There are glaring defects in the parcels post law as now framed, but these will all be eliminated, and the service improved, as time goes along.

Aunt Mahala Eaves Dies.

Aunt Mahala Eaves, one of the best known of the old colored residents of the city, died at her home at 9:15 o'clock last Friday morning, from chronic bronchitis, which for some months had kept her confined to her bed. Deceased was in her 85th year, and had always lived in Greenville; she was an industrious, faithful woman, and had been employed in many of the best homes of the city, and has had the care of scores of children, who have grown to manhood and womanhood, and who have always had the deepest respect and affection for her. Rev. E. H. Emerson, pastor of Wesley Chapel A. M. E. Zion church, conducted the funeral service at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and the body was carried to the family lot in the old cemetery, near by, and laid to rest.

The LaMeade Opera House next Thursday night will have an attraction by local talent, when "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be given.

Death of Mrs. T. E. Drake.

Mrs. Cornelia Caroline Drake, wife of Mr. T. E. Drake, died at their home on College street at 6 o'clock, Wednesday evening, January 8, from a complication of troubles from which she has been a sufferer for two years, and for some weeks had confined her to the bed. For some days it had been realized that her case was hopeless, as no relief could be provided. Deceased was in her 53rd year, and had lived in this county since her marriage in 1877. She was a woman of most excellent characteristics, and was held in high regard by all who knew her, and in her death the community loses a most useful member. Surviving are her husband and daughter, Miss Minnie Drake. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon by Revs. R. C. Love and W. C. Hayes, in the presence of a large congregation of friends, and interment followed in Evergreen cemetery.

There will be a general test of the supposedly unlucky number, 13, at this term of circuit court, which convened Monday, the 13th, in the year '13, and there were 13 prisoners in jail, charged with various offences, who are to be tried this term. You may not believe in the hoodoo number, but it is in this instance most likely to prove unlucky to some one.

Notice to File Claims.

J. L. Roark Estate, 1911
Vs.
Unknown Heirs of Eliza Nichols, Deceased.

All persons holding claims against the estate of Eliza Nichols, deceased, are hereby notified to file the same with the undersigned Commissioner properly proven on or before the 24th day of January, 1913, or forever be barred, this January 14th, 1913.

E. A. TAYLOR,

Master Commissioner of Muhlenberg Circuit Court.

POWDERLY.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mooringham have returned from a pleasant visit to their old home in Tennessee.

Mrs. Willis from Rochester is here at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Josephine W.

Mrs. Melton who has been on the sick list is much improved.

The Ladies of the Christian church organized an aid society on new years day at the home of Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Harlan.

Little Annie Belle Frazier who fell out of the surry and was run over by it Sunday received only slight injuries but is now suffering from chicken-pox.

Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Harlan entertained the young people at this place Thursday evening. Delightful refreshments were served. Those present were: Misses Ethel Moore, Edna Withers, Ola Claxton, Lillie Anthony, Edna Clements, Ida Clements, Annie Tate, Ona Jameson, Pansey Tate, Pearl Arnold, Grace Longest, Ethel Fleming, Laura Longest, Elva Fleming, Mrs. R. E. Frazier and Mrs. Everett Cummings. Messrs: James Frazier, Lewis Frazier, Tom Withers, John Moore, Clarence Heltsley, Tom Daves, Ben Anthony, Ben Anthony, Davey Brown, Alva Gray, Willie Heltsley, Emmitt Cesna, Tom Alexander, Jasper Hanks, Shelby Heltsley, Frank Dotson, Everett Cummings and J. G. Flemings.

The coal mines along the O. & N. south of Central City have suffered severely by the heavy rains. Several have been filled with water, and will be out of commission for some time, entailing heavy losses.

Alvin McKinney Drowned.

Mr. Alvie McKinney, while engaged in rescuing dogs in Pond river, near Red Bridge, last Sunday, was thrown out of a boat and drowned. Wes Edwards, a colored man, was with McKinney, but managed to get to shore, but could render no assistance to his companion, whose body was recovered Tuesday. McKinney is survived by two small children.

One who has frequently heretofore contributed verse to these columns offers "A Thought for the New Year" in this issue, and it is worth the attention of our readers.

What has become of the gang of bad folks that formerly ran away from home and stayed away from the grand jury adjournment?

Card of Thanks.

There can be no adequate expression of gratitude to friends and neighbors who were so thoughtful, kind and attentive during the prolonged illness and after the passing of our wife and mother. But the memory of these comforting services shall always remain, and may divine blessings rest upon everyone.

T. F. DRAKE.

MISS MINNIE DRAKE.

Mr. Thos. Frazier, who has been at Milan, Tenn., is here now for a short time.

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," will be given by local talent at the opera house next Thursday night, the proceeds for the benefit of the V. M. C. A. ladies' auxiliary.

Mr. P. W. Middleton, of Lexington was here a few days on business.

Mrs. G. E. Countzler is spending a few days in Hopkinsville with her mother.

Mr. H. A. McNary, who has been at home for the holidays, left the first of the week for an extended commercial trip through the South.

Stage on a Paragon.
Cyril Foster, of the "Dinner" he once attended at which Helen Banta was the guest of honor, for lunch was called on for a speech.
"What shall I speak of?" he asked. He was a quiet man and hated speech-making.
"Oh, just tell us about the stage something about the theater," someone said.
Banta laughed. "If you want to know about theater, well, I know. But if you want to know something about the stage, ask the barber in the hotel clerk—anyone about an actor."

The Missing Adjunct.
"There was a very disagreeable wait at the Muggleton's wedding last evening. The bride was in tears, the bridegroom's collar popped, the parlor fell asleep in its study and the organist played, 'Oh, Promise Me' eleven times."

"What in the world was the trouble?"
"Why, the moving picture man's auto struck a fire hydrant and his whole outfit went to smash."

Aloft in the Distance.
"I shall take a lofty position in discussing public affairs," said the young man who is looking for a position.
"That's right, son," replied Senator Stoughton. "Only don't soar so high into the empyrean that you are like an albatross and the only impression people get of you is a small spot and a buzz."

PROOF.

Jargon.—No your grandfather lived to be ninety years old, eh. Did he retain possession of his faculties until the end?
Jargon.—Can't say. His will hasn't been read as yet.

A Noble Character.
Who is or takes exception that don't belong to him. Deserves to dwell in heaven. Is the scamp.

Country Girl of Nowadays.
"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going to the city," she said. "and I'm also pretty and I'm only eighteen. I'm just a country girl. I've never been to the city and I know what manners are. And if there's anything more you'd like to know just ask me."—Belle.

Human Chronometer.
The dining mother was telling the bachelor uncle about the wonderful baby.
"George is so regular in his habits," she said. "He wakes up every night at exactly 12 o'clock every night."
"A true bawl," said the bachelor uncle.

Black Hand Methods.
"I received a letter from a trust magnate today," said the manager of the campaign fund.
"What does he want?"
"Wants to contribute. Says he has hidden $5,000 in a hollow tree, and demands that we go and get it."

A Possibility.
Jinks—If I had not married I would be worth a million.
Jinks—But I am single and penniless.
Jinks—Ah, but if you had married you might have learned to economize.

Two or Three.
Country Cousin—Well, I was in the Metropolitan museum this morning.
City Host—That's nothing to brag about. I know two or three fellows living right here in New York who have been there.—Smart Set.

His Idea.
"Don't you think we have loved enough already, senator?"
"Oh, yes; but if I don't let you know what I'm here for, I'll never get here again."

"I was Crippled, could hardly walk and had to Crawl" down stairs at times on my hands and knees. My doctor told me I had an acute attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I was in the hospital for weeks, but was scarcely able to walk when I left it. I read about Dr. Miles' Nervine.

bought a bottle and began to get better from the start, and for the past six months I have had scarcely any pain and am able to walk as well as ever." J.H. SANDERS, P. O. box 5, Rockaway, N. J.

Few medicines are of any benefit for rheumatism, but Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine did for it. One ounce of salicylate of soda added to one bottle of Nervine makes an excellent remedy for rheumatism, which is now known to be a nervous disease and therefore subject to the influence of a medicine that acts through the nerves, as does Dr. Miles' Nervine.
